Family Notes: • We do not know where Solomon Hubbard married Hannah Willard. There were Willards living in Catskill, N.Y. at this time. Word has passed down through the family, however, that Hannah was born in Huntington, N.Y. in 1722 and that she witnessed the Battle of Long Island when she was ten years old. She was the daughter of William Willard and according to the 1790 census, a family of Wm. Williard was living in Stratford, Ct. We are not certain about Hannah's parentage, although a member of the Willard Family Association claims she descends from Major Simon(1) Willard, Jonathan(2), Jonathan(3), and William(4). This William had married Phebe Post of Saybrook, Conn. At any rate Solomon and Hannah Hubbard moved north from Durham, Greene County, N.Y. to Broome, Schoharie County, N.Y. in the first years of the nineteenth century.

Before 1819, they had moved west to Mayville, Chautauqua County, N.Y. [903, p 2]

- Married probably at Durham -- then called Freehold. She may have married a Mr. Phillips, secondly. [1391]

• "Justic [Justus] the oldist was a man of conciderable mind, married an English lady, or widow, but he became inperat and his affars becoming involved his wife proposed going to England and get money that was coming to her but died the day after her arivel home, this was the tale written to him and may have been true. I believe however that she may still be alive: a good plan to get red of him. Justic came to my fathers on his way from New York seeing his wife off. I can see him now as he used to walk up and down and sing The birds without barnes poor fellow hes now without a barn. The last time I saw him he was a common drunken hod carrier frequenting the lowist haunts of mice, and no doubt ere this fills a drunkerds grave, age about 61. He and his brother Elius were the only Hubbards I have ever known fond of drink." [904, p 2]

Julia

- “Julia married a man by the name of Dority [Daugherty] they live in Stillwater Michigan.” [904, p 3]

[Stillwater is a village in Saratoga County, NY]

- Two years after the dedication at Buffalo she was married to my father, John Daugherty, and they removed to Penfield.

After six years sojourn in Penfield my parents returned to Buffalo, and mother became a member successively of the church worshipping in the building bought of the Presbyterians on their removal to Church Square.

She still attends the morning and evening service, with the class-meeting, on Sabbath, and the social meetings through the week with much interest and pleasure.

- Born: Penfield, Monroe County, N.Y. — Aug. 25, 1825

Died: Jacksonville, Fla., 1868. Buried: Rockford, Ill.

“E. C. Daugherty was the grandson of Wm. Daugherty, who was born in Ulster, County Antrim, Ireland. His grandmother, Eleanor McKeever, was born just across the North Channel in Scotland. A flag flown from her window could be seen across the Channel which indicated when her lover would find her home. The boat crossing was in sight of the Giants Causeway. Within a year after they were married they came to this country and settled in Washington Co., N.Y. in about 1790. There they had seven children – 4 sons, 3 daughters. In 1812 they moved to Penfield, N.Y. One of their sons was John Daugherty, born in Cambridge, Washington Co., N.Y. He married Julia Hubbard and was the father of Elias C. Daugherty. In 1827 John moved his family from Penfield to Buffalo.

In his late teens, E. C. D. became an apprentice printer with the Commercial Advertiser. He married Sophronia Clark on Oct. 21, 1846. In 1850 they moved to Dansville, N.Y. and he started the Dansville Herald, May 23, 1850. After 4 years he sold it moved to Rockford, Ill. and established on Feb. 15, 1855 the Rockford Register. Due to ill health he sold the Register, Feb. 23, 1867. A year later he went to Jacksonville, Fla. for his health but it was too late. He soon passed away from tuberculosis. He left his wife, Sophronia, and two daughters, Flora and Julia. He was a shrewd businessman and left his family in very comfortable circumstances. [351, p 4]

- The Dansville Express (formerly the Dansville Herald) was started in 1850 by E. C. Daugherty & Co., James G. Sprague being the silent partner, but he never assumed any part in the management of the paper. It was started as a Whig paper, and as Mr. Daugherty, having learned the printer's trade in Buffalo, was a high-class printer and a man of excellent character, he succeeded in making the Herald a model paper, having but few equals among the rural weeklies of the State. He continued to publish the Herald until the fall of 1854 when it was sold to H. L. and L. H. Rann, who also came to Dansville from Buffalo. Mr. Daugherty moved to Rockford, Ills., and started the Rockford Register, and built up a prosperous business. He died of consumption while in Florida in 1863, lamented by those who knew him best. [3338]

- In the autumn of 1853 the Young Men's Association was organized, for the purpose of bringing to Rockford the most popular lecturers of the day, and it continued in this field until 1860. Among the members were: E. C. Daugherty. [353, p 757]

- Rockford Register, established February, 1855, as a Republican paper, by Elias C. Daugherty, who continued its publication until June 12, 1865, when the entire establishment, and also the Rock River Democrat office, were purchased by a joint stock company, known as the Rockford Register Company, by whom it has been published to the present time. [354, p 384]

- The Rockford Register was founded by E. C. Daugherty in February, 1855. There were already two weekly papers in the field, the Republican and the Democrat. But Mr. Daugherty was confident there was always room at the top. In his prospectus Mr. Daugherty said he had "selected the flourishing and beautiful city of Rockford as his future home, believing the field ample for a new aspirant to public favor."

Mr. Daugherty had in him the elements of the reformer, and he founded the Register as a strong opponent of the extension of slavery. [2573, p 134]

Commencing with a limited capital, and contending against strong opposition, Mr. Daugherty lived to see both the original papers, and others, merged into the Register, which became a strong and influential paper. The Register absorbed other papers representing an almost unbroken line since 1840. The impaired health of Mr. Daugherty compelled him to retire from active business life. [2573, p 135]

- In its first issue, published Feb. 15, 1855, the Rockford Register said: "Regarding the institution of slavery as anti-Christian, inhuman, a national evil and shame, the Register will deprecate its existence, oppose its continuance where it exists by sufferance of the general government, and exert its influence against the farther extension of the evil." [2969]

- Daily Register, Republican, established by Elias C. Daugherty, June 1, 1859, but discontinued at the end of three months. Was renewed in October, 1877. [354, p 385]

- E. C. Daugherty

"E. C. Daugherty is remembered and honored in Dansville for his consistent Christian character and uncommon ability as a printer and editor. He learned his trade in Buffalo, and graduated as one of the swiftest and most skillful printers in that city. He came to Dansville, and started the Dansville Herald in May, 1850, and published it for four years, winning general confidence and esteem. Then he went to Rockford, Ill., where he started the Rockford Register in February, 1854. By hard and conscientious labor he gradually raised the paper to widespread influence and financial success, but in doing so sapped the fountains of life. He went to Jacksonville, Fla., to improve his health, and died there February 19, 1868, aged forty-five. [352, p 256]

- Death of Mr. E. C. Daugherty

We incidentally hear of the death of Mr. E. C. Daugherty, of Rockford, Illinois, formerly of this village. Mr. Daugherty founded the Dansville Herald in 1850, and the Rockford Register in 1855. We shall expect to hear during the week more fully concerning his death and shall write a notice worthy of the man who was held in such high esteem both here and in the west. [3289]

- We are under obligations to the editor of the Rockford Register for copies of that paper containing notices of the death and funeral services of the late lamented E. C. Daugherty, whose decease we mentioned two weeks since. Mr. Daugherty died on Wednesday, Feb. 19, 1868 in Jacksonville, Florida, for which place he left Rockford on the 21st of January. He did not go south expecting permanent benefit, but at the earnest solicitation of friends who wished to prolong his life if possible. He was accompanied by his wife, who testifies that he died triumphantly, in the hope of meeting the Saviour whom he had so consistently served. He left a wife and two daughters who have our heartfelt sympathy.

Mr. Daugherty was born in Penfield, Monroe County, August 25th 1825. While quite young he entered the office of the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser as an apprentice, and graduated therefrom in a few years with great honors. The first venture he made for himself was in establishing the Dansville Herald. The initial number was issued May 23, 1850. After four years of untiring labor here, during which time he won the confidence and esteem of all with whom he came in contact, Mr. D's attention was called to the enterprising city of Rockford, Illinois, and thither he removed in 1854, and issued the first number of the Rockford Register on the 15th of February following. Well do we remember the event, for we accompanied Mr. Daugherty to Rockford, assisted him in fitting up his office and set the first stick of type ever composed for the Register. The only press we had in the office that winter was a Washington Hand Press No. 4 on which all the press work of the office was done. Mr. Daugherty was never of a sanguine nature and had many misgivings of the success of the new enterprise, but setting himself firmly in the harness he commenced that long, strong, unceasing pull, which continued until the Register issued from obscurity upon the broad highway of success, the great exponent of patriotism, morality, temperance and religion in Northern Illinois. But alas! The life he gave to his business was taken from himself, and his paper which should have been to him a mantle of strength and glory, proved like the cocoon to the silkworm, a shroud of his own weaving.

Writing this upon the same desk on which Mr. Daugherty penned his first editorial, we feel near us the quiet, serious presence of the kind employer who made life so earnest and work so unremitting, and when we remember his many hours of hard application, we cease to wonder that he, never robust, should have ceased to live just when a man should be in his prime of power and strength. It was his custom to finish each evening's labor by laying out the work of the succeeding day, and the next evening's lamplight always saw finished what the last ray of day's sunlight had left undone. A thoroughly practical printer himself, his care was not confined to the editorial, but extended as well to all the details of the mechanical department of his business, and never foreman or journeyman was so experienced and trustworthy that his work must not pass under the inspection of the grave, searching eyes behind the gold rimmed glasses. All honor and peace to the memory of the consistent Christian editor and printer, who did so much to elevate and dignify our profession. We feel the world has been made the better for his having lived in it.

A. O. Bunnell [355, p 1]

- From Coldwater (Mich.) Republican:

"An editor gone — Do you know, Mr. Editor, that one of your noble brothers of the Fraternity has just departed. I saw it in the Chicago papers last week, that E. C. Daugherty, Esq., Editor and Publisher of the Rockford Register, has died in Florida, whither he had gone for his health. It was my happiness to have known him when he was at the head of the Dansville, N.Y. Herald, and a more genial and gentlemanly man is rare to find. He was very mild and amiable — having so much sweetness of manners that one would have thought him lacking in energy and power. He was ever a leading man in the Whig cause of those days, and his paper at Rockford has shown him the same in the Republican Party. Mr. Daugherty was distinguished for his wonderful skill as a local item man, there being nothing of any interest which he did not find out and publish in a very attractive manner. As a member of the Methodist Church, he was ever reliable and valuable, and his influence on the moral and religious tone of his town and region, some half a hundred of his old friends followed him — so many that they made a very respectable party for a 4th of July celebration, which they observed as Dansville men. He soon made his mark in the beautiful city of his choice in the west, and his labors were so well appreciated, that his paper became the leading one of that region, and its owner a man of no little wealth. But this could not save him from that enemy which loves a shining mark. He has, for several years, been an invalid, and finally sought the milder clime of the orange groves. But it was of little avail. He died about a week ago, and leaves a much attached wife, and two children, and troops of friends to mourn his loss. He was about forty-five years of age. Mr. Thomas Daugherty of this city, was his uncle, and among his mourners, as also is his friend, J. W. Ray. [355, p 2], [1299, p 4]

- He was a shrewd businessman and left his family in very comfortable circumstances. [351, p 5]

Ah, pleasant thus, methinks, to dwell

Amid the wild-woods shade,

Where songsters warbling notes may swell

In praise of Him who made

And then at close of setting day,

In gathering hour of even,

To calmly meditate and pray,

And sweetly think of Heaven. ----- [1308]

Died: Jacksonville, Fla., 1868. Buried: Rockford, Ill.

“E. C. Daugherty was the grandson of Wm. Daugherty, who was born in Ulster, County Antrim, Ireland. His grandmother, Eleanor McKeeever, was born just across the North Channel in Scotland. A flag flown from her window could be seen across the Channel which indicated when her lover would find her home. The boat crossing was in sight of the Giants Causeway. Within a year after they were married they came to this country and settled in Washington Co., N.Y. in about 1790. There they had seven children – 4 sons, 3 daughters. In 1812 they moved to Penfield, N.Y. One of their sons was John Daugherty, born in Cambridge, Washington Co., N.Y. He married Julia Hubbard and was the father of Elias C. Daugherty. In 1827 John moved his family from Penfield to Buffalo.

In his late teens, E. C. D. became an apprentice printer with the Commercial Advertiser. He married Sophronia Clark on Oct. 21, 1846. In 1850 they moved to Dansville, N.Y. and he started the Dansville Herald, May 23, 1850. After 4 years he sold it moved to Rockford, Ill. and established on Feb. 15, 1855 the Rockford Register. Due to ill health he sold the Register, Feb. 23, 1867. A year later he went to Jacksonville, Fla. for his health but it was too late. He soon passed away from tuberculosis. He left his wife, Sophronia, and two daughters, Flora and Julia. He was a shrewd businessman and left his family in very comfortable circumstances. [351, p 4]

- The Dansville Express (formerly the Dansville Herald) was started in 1850 by E. C. Daugherty & Co., James G. Sprague being the silent partner, but he never assumed any part in the management of the paper. It was started as a Whig paper, and as Mr. Daugherty, having learned the printer's trade in Buffalo, was a high-class printer and a man of excellent character, he succeeded in making the Herald a model paper, having but few equals among the rural weeklies of the State. He continued to publish the Herald until the fall of 1854 when it was sold to H. L. and L. H. Rann, who also came to Dansville from Buffalo. Mr. Daugherty moved to Rockford, Ills., and started the Rockford Register, and built up a prosperous business. He died of consumption while in Florida in 1863, lamented by those who knew him best. [3338]

- In the autumn of 1853 the Young Men's Association was organized, for the purpose of bringing to Rockford the most popular lecturers of the day, and it continued in this field until 1860. Among the members were: E. C. Daugherty. [353, p 757]

- Rockford Register, established February, 1855, as a Republican paper, by Elias C. Daugherty, who continued its publication until June 12, 1865, when the entire establishment, and also the Rock River Democrat office, were purchased by a joint stock company, known as the Rockford Register Company, by whom it has been published to the present time. [354, p 384]

- The Rockford Register was founded by E. C. Daugherty in February, 1855. There were already two weekly papers in the field, the Republican and the Democrat. But Mr. Daugherty was confident there was always room at the top. In his prospectus Mr. Daugherty said he had “selected the flourishing and beautiful city of Rockford as his future home, believing the field ample for a new aspirant to public favor.”

Mr. Daugherty had in him the elements of the reformer, and he founded the Register as a strong opponent of the extension of slavery. [2573, p 134]

Commencing with a limited capital, and contending against strong opposition, Mr. Daugherty lived to see both the original papers, and others, merged into the Register, which became a strong and influential paper. The Register absorbed other papers representing an almost unbroken line since 1840. The impaired health of Mr. Daugherty compelled him to retire from active business life. [2573, p 135]

- In its first issue, published Feb. 15, 1855, the Rockford Register said: “Regarding the institution of slavery as anti-Christian, inhuman, a national evil and shame, the Register will deprecate its existence, oppose its continuance where it exists by sufferance of the general government, and exert its influence against the farther extension of the evil.” [2969]

- Daily Register, Republican, established by Elias C. Daugherty, June 1, 1859, but discontinued at the end of three months. Was renewed in October, 1877. [354, p 385]

- E. C. Daugherty

“E. C. Daugherty is remembered and honored in Dansville for his consistent Christian character and uncommon ability as a printer and editor. He learned his trade in Buffalo, and graduated as one of the swiftest and most skillful printers in that city. He came to Dansville, and started the Dansville Herald in May, 1850, and published it for four years, winning general confidence and esteem. Then he went to Rockford, Ill., where he started the Rockford Register in February, 1854. By hard and conscientious labor he gradually raised the paper to widespread influence and financial success, but in doing so sapped the fountains of life. He went to Jacksonville, Fla., to improve his health, and died there February 19, 1868, aged forty-five. [352, p 256]

- Death of Mr. E. C. Daugherty

We incidentally hear of the death of Mr. E. C. Daugherty, of Rockford, Illinois, formerly of this village. Mr. Daugherty founded the Dansville Herald in 1850, and the Rockford Register in 1855. We shall expect to hear during the week more fully concerning his death and shall write a notice worthy of the man who was held in such high esteem both here and in the west. [3289]

- We are under obligations to the editor of the Rockford Register for copies of that paper containing notices of the death and funeral services of the late lamented E. C. Daugherty, whose decease we mentioned two weeks since. Mr. Daugherty died on Wednesday, Feb. 19, 1868 in Jacksonville, Florida, for which place he left Rockford on the 21st of January. He did not go south expecting permanent benefit, but at the earnest solicitation of friends who wished to prolong his life if possible. He was accompanied by his wife, who testifies that he died triumphantly, in the hope of meeting the Saviour whom he had so consistently served. He left a wife and two daughters who have our heartfelt sympathy.

Mr. Daugherty was born in Penfield, Monroe County, August 25th 1825. While quite young he entered the office of the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser as an apprentice, and graduated therefrom in a few years with great honors. The first venture he made for himself was in establishing the Dansville Herald. The initial number was issued May 23, 1850. After four years of untiring labor here, during which time he won the confidence and esteem of all with whom he came in contact, Mr. D's attention was called to the enterprising city of Rockford, Illinois, and thither he removed in 1854, and issued the first number of the Rockford Register on the 15th of February following. Well do we remember the event, for we accompanied Mr. Daugherty to Rockford, assisted him in fitting up his office and set the first stick of type ever composed for the Register. The only press we had in the office that winter was a Washington Hand Press No. 4 on which all the press work of the office was done. Mr. Daugherty was never of a sanguine nature and had many misgivings of the success of the new enterprise, but setting himself firmly in the harness he commenced that long, strong, unceasing pull, which continued until the Register issued from obscurity upon the broad highway of success, the great exponent of patriotism, morality, temperance and religion in Northern Illinois. But alas! The life he gave to his business was taken from himself, and his paper which should have been to him a mantle of strength and glory, proved like the cocoon to the silkworm, a shroud of his own weaving.

Writing this upon the same desk on which Mr. Daugherty penned his first editorial, we feel near us the quiet, serious presence of the kind employer who made life so earnest and work so unremitting, and when we remember his many hours of hard application, we cease to wonder that he, never robust, should have ceased to live just when a man should be in his prime of power and strength. It was his custom to finish each evening's labor by laying out the work of the succeeding day, and the next evening's lamplight always saw finished what the last ray of day's sunlight had left undone. A thoroughly practical printer himself, his care was not confined to the editorial, but extended as well to all the details of the mechanical department of his business, and never foreman or journeyman was so experienced and trustworthy that his work must not pass under the inspection of the grave, searching eyes behind the gold rimmed glasses. All honor and peace to the memory of the consistent Christian editor and printer, who did so much to elevate and dignify our profession. We feel the world has been made the better for his having lived in it.

A. O. Bunnell [355, p 1]

- From Coldwater (Mich.) Republican:

"An editor gone — Do you know, Mr. Editor, that one of your noble brothers of the Fraternity has just departed. I saw it in the Chicago papers last week, that E. C. Daugherty, Esq., Editor and Publisher of the Rockford Register, has died in Florida, whither he had gone for his health. It was my happiness to have known him when he was at the head of the Dansville, N.Y. Herald, and a more genial and gentlemanly man is rare to find. He was very mild and amiable — having so much sweetness of manners that one would have thought him lacking in energy and power. He was ever a leading man in the Whig cause of those days, and his paper at Rockford has shown him the same in the Republican Party. Mr. Daugherty was distinguished for his wonderful skill as a local item man, there being nothing of any interest which he did not find out and publish in a very attractive manner. As a member of the Methodist Church, he was ever reliable and valuable, and his influence on the moral and religious tone of his town and region, some half a hundred of his old friends followed him — so many that they made a very respectable party for a 4th of July celebration, which they observed as Dansville men. He soon made his mark in the beautiful city of his choice in the west, and his labors were so well appreciated, that his paper became the leading one of that region, and its owner a man of no little wealth. But this could not save him from that enemy which loves a shining mark. He has, for several years, been an invalid, and finally sought the milder climate of the orange groves. But it was of little avail. He died about a week ago, and leaves a much attached wife, and two children, and troops of friends to mourn his loss. He was about forty-five years of age. Mr. Thomas Daugherty of this city, was his uncle, and among his mourners, as also is his friend, J. W. Ray. [355, p 2], [1299, p 4]

- He was a shrewd businessman and left his family in very comfortable circumstances. [351, p 5]

Ah, pleasant thus, methinks, to dwell

Amid the wild-woods shade,

Where songsters warbling notes may swell

In praise of Him who made

And then at close of setting day,

In gathering hour of even,

To calmly meditate and pray,

And sweetly think of Heaven. ----- [1308]

Flora Maria

- Born: May 14 or 17, 1849: Buffalo, New York
Died: Jan. 9, 1923 [sic] Pomona, Calif.

Flora was the daughter of E. C. Daugherty and Sophronia Marie Clark. The family moved from Buffalo to Dansville, N.Y. in 1850 and Rockford, Ill. in 1855. She married Philetus S. Martin on July 23, 1867. He was the son of John Martin and Annis Nettleton of Prescott, Ont., Can. They were married on Oct. 21, 1818 and had emigrated with four sons by covered wagon to Ogle County, Ill. in 1838. P.S.M. was born March 27, 1844 at Lighthouse Point near Oregon, Ill. John and Annis and 5 sons all celebrated 50 yrs. of marriage.

Flora & Philetus moved with their 3 sons to Pomona, Calif. in 1887. They purchased 10 acres of the Chino Ranch and planted it to fruit trees. In 1895 they purchased a block and built a home at 659 N. Towne Ave., where they spent their remaining years. Before moving to Calif., P. S. M. had been a bookkeeper and part owner of a steam cracker factory in Rockford. He passed away March 7, 1934 [351, pp 1 & 2]

- Pomona, May 21, 1905.

Well, that dear budget of letters has reached Pomona and I can't begin to tell what a jolly good time we had this Sunday afternoon listening to the reading of the same by the Post Script as he styles himself sometimes, of the original Martin family with whom I cast my lot in with some thirty-eight years ago, back in the dear old Rockford home. Yes, some people rave over California with its sunshine and flowers, but there are some things it lacks and one of them is the beautiful rivers and smaller streams of the East. Then we miss our friends so much, they come so seldom and so far between, and some never come at all. But I want you all to remember that the latch string is always out, and hoping to see more of you or all of you in the near future I will say good bye with love to all of you.

I remain lovingly,

Mrs. Flora M. Martin [1013, p 29]

• Mrs. P. S. Martin

A resident of Pomona for 37 years, Mrs. Flora Martin, wife of P. S. Martin of 659 N. Towne avenue, died at 10 o'clock last night after an illness of several months. She was 76 years old.

Funeral services have been arranged by Todd and Reeves, and will be held from the residence at 10:30 Monday morning, with the Rev. Fletcher G. Watson of Trinity Methodist church officiating. Burial will be at Pomona cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin had come to Pomona from Rockford, Ill. They were charter members of Trinity M. E. church, and Mrs. Martin had been active in church circles for many years.

Besides her husband there survive three sons, Elias C. of Claremont, John J. of Pomona, and Walter W. of Pasadena. There are four grandchildren. [2574]

Philetus Sylvanus

- Named "P. S." as a postscript - the "caboose" baby.
- The "P.S." of P. S. Martin really stands for "Post Script." You notice he was born when Annis was 44. [2018, p 3]

- MARRIED.

MARTIN - DAUGHERTY. In this city, on Tuesday evening, July 23d, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. A. L. Martin, Philetus S. Martin and Miss Flora M., eldest daughter of E. C. Daugherty, all of Rockford. [1300]

- Marriage document gives date of marriage as 10 Aug 1867. [320]
- This management continued until October 7, 1871, when the name of S. M. Daugherty, widow of the founder of the paper, appeared as proprietor. The following week the Register announced that P. S. Martin was business manager. [353, p 764]
- Came to California with his family by rail in 1887.

- Another son, Philetus S., is a ranchman near Pomona, Cal., on the Cheno [sic] Ranch. [1006, p 741]

- Flora & Philetus moved with their 3 sons to Pomona, Calif. in 1887. They purchased 10 acres of the Chino Ranch and planted it to fruit trees. In 1895 they purchased a block and built a home at 659 N. Towne Ave. where they spent their remaining years. Before moving to Calif., P. S. M. had been a bookkeeper and part owner of a steam cracker factory in Rockford. He passed away March 7, 1934. [351, p 2]

- Letter written by Philetus Sylvanus Martin:

Rockford, Ills Dec. 3rd 1876

"To day Mother gave me the following facts in regard to the Ancestors of the Martin family. About one hundred and thirty-five (135) years ago James or Richard Martin (Mother is not quite positive as to the name) being disowned by his parents for marrying a Catholic girl, took his wife, and little babe named William, then six weeks old, and left his home in the north of Ireland and came to America. William had no brothers, but 2 sisters, one married a man named Bradshaw, the other died an old maid at Father's house. William lived about 72 years.

William had three sons, the first two dying in infancy, they were all named James, and 3 daughters the last one by a second wife. James had 2 sons John & Richard and 3 daughters Lydia, Phoebe & Sophia – he was over 70 years old when he died in 1838.

John had six (6) sons & 1 daughter named respectively William, James, Henry, Moses, John Wesley, and Philetus S. and Sarah Jane. He lived to the good old age of 76 years before he died.

Philetus S. Martin [316]

- P. S. Martin, book-keeper at O. I. Luce's screen door works, is laid up with a badly sprained ankle which he got yesterday morning trying to hold a runaway horse. While on his way to work he saw a buggy drive under the C. & N. W. track on South Main Street, with two young ladies and a boy in it. The C. & I. Train passed the street at that moment and frightened the horse. He turned short, nearly upsetting the carriage and dumping both girls into the street. A disastrous runaway was threatened and running out into the street the bookkeeper threw one arm around the steed's neck and with his other hand grabbed the bit. In the tussle that ensued his left ankle was sprained so that he nearly fainted when he tried to stand on the member. The driver was thrown out bruised some, but thanks to Mr. Martin's timely assistance no serious injury was occasioned. [1019]

- A Brave Action.

P. S. Martin, the bookkeeper at the Cutlery Works, while on his way home last evening did a brave act, and received in doing it a badly sprained ankle, which will lay him up for some time. A gentleman drove his team and carriage up in front of D. A. Elmore's coal yard, and alighted from the carriage, leaving two ladies, who were with him, seated therein, while he went into the office. An engine in the C. & I. yard frightened the horses, who started off at break neck pace. The ladies lost all control of them. Mr. Martin sprang forward and seized one of them. He was dragged some distance, but retained his hold and succeeded in stopping the team. No damage was done to the team or the carriage. Martin, however, did not escape unhurt, for his ankle was so badly injured that he will be obliged to walk on crutches for a couple of weeks, his physician thinks. [1020]

- Pomona, Cal., May 23, '05.

Sixty years ago the 27th of last March I made my advent into this world. If I was intended as a birthday present to my father on his 50th birthday I spoiled the program by making my appearance just two days ahead of time. The P. S. to a letter may convey some important information overlooked before, or some trifling jest.

What I have been to the Martin family, the well known Martin modesty forbids further comment on my part. It was a great pleasure to Flora and I last year to meet a number of our relatives of the younger generation that we had never seen. To them and also to those whom, although not seen we yet love, we extend heartfelt greetings. I expect time will reveal the mystery of the hand on Riley's shoulder. And would say to those who are "waiting" that "All things come to those who wait." We do not forget in our years the one called of God to do his work in strange lands. That her life may be precious in His sight and work blessed of Him.

With a "God bless you" to all I am yours,

P. S. Martin [1013, p 28]

- [excerpt] Pomona, Cal., Feb. 5, 1906.

It goes without saying that we all were very much interested in Clara's [missionary to Penang, Malaysia] letter. Anything about the habits and customs of the people in strange lands is of interest to us, especially if written by those near and dear to us. We shall look for much of interest from Arthur in his letter, giving his impressions of and experiences with the "Heathen Chinese." We trust the Boxers will not get him and that he and his helpmeet and Clara will be blessed with good health and prospered in their labors. [1013, pp 69-70]

- Cause of death: Accident. Fell in bed room; fractured femur. [1026]
- Philetus S. Martin passed away this morning at the family home, 659 N. Towne avenue, after a short illness.

Mr. Martin was born March 27, 1844, at Light House Point, Ill. He has been a resident of Pomona for 47 years, coming here from Rockford, Ill. He was a charter member of the Trinity Methodist church, being the oldest living member. He was always an active church worker and had only missed a very few Sundays in attendance at Sunday school and the church since a small boy.

Mr. Martin is survived by three sons, Elias C., and John J. Martin of Pomona, and Walter M. Martin of Pasadena. There are four grandchildren. [7502]

Marriage Notes: • MARTIN-DAUGHERTY. In this city, on Tuesday evening, July 23d, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. A. L. Martin, Philetus S. Martin and Miss Flora M., eldest daughter of E. C. Daugherty; all of Rockford. [1300]

• Married 32 years in 1900. [1749]

• MR. AND MRS. MARTIN WEDDED FORTY YEARS.

Yesterday July 23d, was the fortieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Philetus S. Martin, of 695 North Towne avenue, and last evening twenty-four of their friends and relatives gave the Martins the surprise of their lives. The throng proceeded stealthily in the Martin home and took possession before the host and hostess were aware of what was taking place.

Refreshments were served on the veranda early in the evening, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin were presented with a silver pudding dish as a token of the love and esteem of their friends.

Games and social intercourse were indulged in until a late hour when the company dispersed, wishing the hosts many more years of wedded life.

The out of town guests were Walter Martin and wife of Pasadena and the Misses Funk of northern California. [1023]

• Attended 80th Birthday celebration of Dr. A. L. Gilbert in North Cohocton, NY in 1904. [1301, p 2]
